New programs at college

Training and development will offer four new courses

By Jan Brown

Five new programs will begin this fall on the training and development department — with design specialist. With applications programmer (DAC) control, personal computer programmer, systems programmer, and information technology programmer.

The training and development department decided to expand its program to include more related to the Web.

Head Dennis Bradley is a professional training coordinator with the college. He is a graduate of the college and has a degree in business administration. He is a member of the college's board of directors and is a member of the college's board of directors.

The Web design program will be a two-year program. It will be a two-year program. It will be a two-year program. It will be a two-year program.

Marks key factor in admittance to Conestoga

By Julie Porter

In past years, applicants to most colleges prepared very little before entering by hand to judge their suitability and ability to be successful in a career. But now everyone brought a resume to the process and was interviewed.

A questionnaire might have been the only way to judge suitability, but now everyone brought a resume to the process and was interviewed.

and that will be the primary factor in a career decision between two applicants.

"The questionnaire was removed primarily because of the amount of time it took to make."

Kid Rock's greatest hits CD features band's lesser known compositions

By James Campbell

Kid Rock, the self-proclaimed "Rock God" of the 1980s, is the latest of a new wave of rockers to return to the scene after a long absence.

There is no doubt of it: Kid Rock is a composer of rock music. In his CD, he has collected a collection of his greatest hits and some of his lesser known compositions.
